☐ Title: "Courage Is Contagious"

[Verse 1]

Packed a lunch, packed my sign Threw on boots and a righteous mind Called my girls, said "You still in?" They said "Hell yes — now let's begin"

We met at dawn, hearts half broke
With fire inside and tired jokes
Made our way to the courthouse lawn
With the names of the fallen on our arms

[Chorus]

Courage is contagious
You can feel it in the air
From the grannies in pink hats
To the kid with the rainbow hair
Every time we raise our signs
We're lighting up the ones who hide
So scream it loud and let 'em hear
We're done with hate and done with fear
We're not just pages — we're the stages
And courage is contagious

[Verse 2]

Saw a man just stand and stare
Tears in his eyes like a silent prayer
He didn't speak, didn't raise a hand
But I knew right then — he understands

'Cause not all warriors lead the charge Some are shaking, some are scarred

But when they see us stand as one They start to think, "Maybe I could come"

[Chorus]

Courage is contagious

And it spreads like morning sun
In every chant and lifted fist
In every no that won't be undone
It's for the quiet, it's for the bold
It's for the young, it's for the old
For every heart that's turned outrageous
Yeah, courage is contagious

[Bridge]

They want us tired, torn apart But this right here — this is the spark You can't cage what's born from truth You can't erase a million boots

[Final Chorus]

Courage is contagious
You can feel it in our feet
Pounding pavement with our voices
Marchin' loud down every street
So if you're scared, but feel that fire
Come take your place in this choir
You don't have to be outrageous
Just remember — courage is contagious
